

Theorem. If a locally linear function has a maximum or a minimum at an interior point of its domain, then that point must be a critical point.